YANK SOLDIERS

Americans and Black Men
Fight at the British Repatriation Camp.

London, Eng., April 25.—Three Americans were killed at the Winchester repatriation camp last night in a fight with South African negro soldiers, an Exchange Telegram dispatch from Winchester says.

The Winchester camp was established for Americans who served in the British army and were waiting transportation home.

The feeling between the forces of South African blacks and Americans has been strong. The blacks last night armed themselves with sticks and attacked the Americans, three of whom are said to have been killed while the others were injured. British troops quelled the disturbance.

WM. J. BRYAN WOULD BE PRESBYTERIAN MODERATOR

Lincoln, Neb., April 25.—Wm. J. Bryan is a candidate for the office of moderator of the Presbyterian church of the United States, according to an announcement received by local newspapers from J. E. Wooten, of New York, publicity director for Presbyterian churches. The moderator, the announcement says, is to be chosen during the sessions of the church's general assembly at St. Louis May 15-22.

Pan-German Clique Issues Declaration
Demanding Restoration Of Monarchy
Under The Former Kaiser Wilhelm

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 25.—With Germany waiting in the chair of restoration and the glow of defeat, the treacherous pan-German clique again comes to the front at Berlin with a "declaration" which is both pompous and grotesque. It was published as a supplement to the millitary newspaper Deutsche Tageszeitung, and if it were not for the horror of it, which Germany has not shared it would furnish an element of wild amusement.

The pan-Germans want the restoration of the monarchy under the ex-kaiser and are looking forward to another war. The "declaration" is signed by about 100 militarists, professors, judges and professional men, most of them bearing titles. Among the signers are Gen. von Gumbert and Gen. von Leeb.

A copy of the text was received here today. In part it reads:

"In consequence of the humiliating collapse of the German empire the pan-German league sees the fatherland not only deprived of the ancestral crown of Teutonic, but also reduced to extreme military, political and economic impotence. The pan-German league regards it as a duty of the German sense of honor that the national assembly offer the kaiser and crown a place of abode on German soil.

The pan-German league repudiates the charges that it was an accomplice in starting or prolonging the war. In spite of the faithful collapse we repudiate the belief that the German people may still be saved. The first prerequisite for this is that the government organize an army that inwardly and outwardly offers the fatherland adequate protection and in which the officers assume the position to which they are entitled. The pan-German league wishes to express the conviction that our fatherland will require a navy, also in the future. It is important that we create it as soon as we are economically able.

The pan-German league can have no confidence in the present form of government, which is based on the German people. Events since November 11, 1918, have proved that a people that has betrayed its duty to the political sense as do the Germans is unfit for the so-called free state form of government. For that reason we particularly cling to the fatherland, which we are confident, even after this calamity, will preserve the old structure of our country's discredited downfall in the last instance was due to lack of patriotism.

Our country must be associated with the world to blot out the disgrace of the downfall that the nation may once more be worthy of its name. We demand that the war be continued along lines that gave us an opportunity to bring every form of German arms into action for the purpose of failing our enemies' evil designs because we knew exactly from history and the inclination of our principal enemies that they did not strive after an understanding of the Germans, but the destruction of the German empire and the German race.

"If our enemies compel us to make territorial concessions they must realize that the demands of the German people, which are based on the achievements of the Prussian kingdom through a century and a half, cannot be renounced permanently in spite of the present helpless condition of the empire.

"The maintenance of our people's national identity and our spiritual unity require urgently that all of German-Austria, including the German section of western Hungary and all of the ancient German territories in the Baltic states, be incorporated in an imperial league.

"In order to forestall the fact that our racial existence is threatened, we demand as early as possible an immigration law that will protect us against the incoming of alien races. We regard the doctrine of equality of all humans before a deity as the realization of which would be a crime to our people."

One Coming Home; Other In France

Lieut. Lorraine D. Ferlet (right), of the 19th Arizona Infantry, and Lieut. Liberty M. Ferlet (left), of the 11th engineers.

Lieut. Ferlet is expected in El Paso with the 19th Infantry Tuesday. He has been in the army for nearly two years, and in France for nine months. He was on the border during the Mexican trouble, with the New Mexico national guard, stationed at Columbus, N. M. Lieut. Ferlet received his training in the officers' training school at Presidio, San Francisco, and specialized in bayonet work. From the Presidio he was sent to American Lake, Wash., then to Fort Sill, Okla., and to Camp Kearny, Cal., then to France. Unfortunately he did not enter into any of the battles in France.

Lieut. Ferlet was a farmer near Anthony before entering the army, and his wife is now with her father, A. A. Howell, at Anthony.

Lieut. Liberty M. Ferlet has been in the army for 19 months. He was in active service in France and engaged in nearly all the drives, including Argonne, Meuse and St. Mihiel. He is still in France.

Before entering the army he was with the city engineers in El Paso, and received his commission at Fort Leavenworth.

He is a native of San Antonio, and he and his brother have been in El Paso for about five years, making their home with their parents at 2125 Rivera street.

shade being used in great profusion on the walls and columns. The upper portions of the walls and ceiling are adorned with many paintings, too numerous to attempt to name them, save the celebrated panel over the high altar, depicting "The Supper in the House of Simon the Pharisee." The Madonna was hit by a shell from a German gun, but not seriously damaged, the only damage being the removal of the head of one of the statues on the north porch.

Some Wonderful Bridges.

"Passing on down this boulevard we turned to the left and reached the Pont d'Alexandre III, perhaps the most beautiful and most elaborate of the 20 bridges spanning the Seine at Paris. Crossing the Seine on this wonderful bridge, we passed on to the Hotel des Invalides, and Musée de l'Armée, where are displayed thousands of war relics representing all the wars of France, and in addition rests the remains of Napoleon. Within the court of the Hotel des Invalides, also known as the Cour d'Honneur, are displayed many places of German warfare devices, including the remains of Zeppelin L-47, two German Gothas.

"In the Hotel des Invalides is 'The Church of St. Louis,' commonly called the soldiers' church. High on the walls of this military church hang the battle flags of France, including those of its worst struggle, so old are some of these trophies that it has been necessary to reinforce them by setting. To the right on entering the church is the funeral car on which the remains of Napoleon were carried through Paris. To the right of the high altar is a chapel, called the Chapelle Napoleon, where the funeral pall and caisson used in conveying the remains of Napoleon to Paris from St. Helena are preserved, along with many other funeral relics of the emperor.

Sunday Night in Paris.

"Sunday night found us at the Folies Bergères, a typical Parisian theater and cabaret, where one immediately sees the most striking exhibition of true Parisian life. The performance was very acceptable, being a musical revue, produced in English and French. A levy of Parisian girls furnished the dances in characteristic costume and very cleverly executed the different dances of the performance.

Early Monday morning we started for Notre Dame on the island, reaching there by the subway. The first stone of this wonderful old church was placed about 1165. Various chapels and parts of the cathedral were added at intervals until 1845, when its consecration took place by the

Which Sort of a Man Are You?

A man of blood and iron, who gets up feeling keen, active and alert—a man of stamina and force—who will forge ahead in the business and political life of the country today?

Are You Such a Man?

Or a man who lacks iron in his blood—who has no energy, force nor strength to meet the problems of the day, and wishes he could sleep until noon?

Look around at the men you meet every day. You can tell the ones with plenty of rich, red blood—they are the strong, healthy fellows, vigorous in body and mind—successful in whatever they undertake. One glance is enough to put the others in the weakening class.

That irritable twitch, that fit of despondency, that dim, fearful feeling—these are the men of shabby nature given to find, unless they have the blood to stand up to the strain of the day, that they are weak and feeble. Without iron in their blood they are weak and feeble. Without iron in their blood they are weak and feeble. Without iron in their blood they are weak and feeble.

archbishop of Paris, Baudry. It has been the scene of many notable events in history. For instance, the coronation of Napoleon I; the wedding of Louis XIII with Mary, of England; and, the latest and perhaps most important, marking more to humanity, a Victory mass in November, 1918, celebrating the signing of the armistice and the cessation of hostilities.

Following are the dimensions of this cathedral: Length, 425 feet; width, 153 feet; height, 111 feet.

Suffice it to say that Paris is a very beautiful and magnificent city and one feels simply repaid for the time spent, the only regret being that a longer stay cannot be given to the city and doubly glad that this beautiful treasure city, so dear to France, was not invaded and captured by the Germans. Upon leaving, you immediately feel inclined to adopt it and speak of it as the Parisian invariably speaks of it, "My Paris."

Tells Of 72 Hours Spent In Paris
El Paso Recites The Things He Saw

SEBASTIAN JOHN TEMPLE RICE, who has been with the medical corps, 141st field hospital in France for 10 months, has received his discharge, and will sail for home soon, according to a cablegram received by his mother, Mrs. J. T. Rice, of 804 West Missouri street, Monday.

The following is an extract taken from a letter received recently from Sgt. Rice, telling of his visit in Paris:

"Seventy-two hours in Paris, France, may seem to many, a short time for a visit where there are so many things of interest and historical value, but short as the time may seem by being on the move all day and a goodly portion of the night, we saw many places and parts of Paris.

Glancing the Paris, Lyons & Moulins train for Paris, at the station of Tonnerre, at 2 p. m., Friday, February 1, 1919, we reached the gay capital city about 7:30 the same evening.

On Avenue de l'Opera.

"After a short stay at the hotel, we went for a walk up the Avenue de l'Opera, then to the Boulevard des Capucines, where the crowds were gathering for the evening promenade on this great thoroughfare. After lunch at a cafe on Boulevard des Capucines, we joined the crowd through the streets and stayed until a late hour, arriving among the others in the party that we would start the following morning for a trip to the shops of Paris.

The next morning, after a breakfast at the Hotel Pavillon, recently taken over by the Y. M. C. A. for the soldiers men of the A. E. F., we started for a trip to the shops of Paris.

Paris is a veritable city of shops, and as one American has expressed it is a great fair or exposition in reality. Rue des Italiens, Avenue de l'Opera, Rue de la Paix, Place Vendôme, Rue Royale, and the Place de la Madeleine, are filled with shops where the most beautiful articles of every line may be found. Elaborate displays of jewelry are to be seen in the windows on all the boulevards of the shopping district of Paris, as well as fashions and styles in great profusion.

American Manufacturers in Paris.

"In Paris, many of the leading American manufacturers have shops among the most prominent and best known being a shop by Tiffany, Colgate, Huggins, Shoes, Walk-Over, Shavers, Gillette Razors, and others, too numerous to mention.

"On the Rue de la Paix are located the beautiful perfume shops of many of the celebrated French manufacturers, those who have supplied the exacting demands of not only France and the rest of Europe, but Americans for almost a century. From an artistic standpoint, these shops are well considered as the last word in their respective lines, each with its distinctive traits and appointments.

"In the evening we had the very good fortune to visit perhaps the most celebrated theater in the world. The Paris Grand opera house from an artistic and architectural standpoint is one of the most beautiful buildings that one could desire.

Pleasing Combination.

The great quantity of marble, the artistic arrangement of the mural decorations, are so elegantly selected and placed throughout the entire structure as to make a most pleasing combination. The interior of the Academie Nationale de Musique, as the theater is called, is a beautiful combination of gold and red. The columns and front and all the balconies are richly decorated with gold, while the ceiling of the dome is covered with a magnificent mural painting. From the top of the dome hangs the great chandelier of many hundred lights.

"Othello by Verdi, was the opera on this particular occasion, with Miles Eugene prima donna, and Mr. Frenais in the title role, and the orchestra of about 150 voices, rendered the music in a superb manner. The prince of Serbia was present on this occasion, and the national flag of Serbia followed by the Marseillaise was never more beautiful.

Go to Church of the Madeleine.

Sunday morning we paid a visit to the Church of the Madeleine, which is perhaps one of the most unique edifices to be found. This church is erected in the form of a Greek temple. The exterior being of true Corinthian style, while the interior is a combination of the orders of Corinthian, Doric and Ionic. The building was originally intended by Napoleon to be known as a temple of glory, but was later returned to the Catholic church, by whom it is used at the present time as a Christian house of worship. There are no windows in the Church of the Madeleine, the natural light being furnished by skylights in the ceiling. This structure in this respect is very different from most of the churches in France, as nearly all others have very magnificent windows. The interior presents a most pleasing picture, of gold, brown, French marble in the latter

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, cathartics, oil, purges and cathartics and force hard action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so.

NR Tablets do much more than merely cause a laxative effect. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs—promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a cool, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleansing out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best.
